

Local Exchange Carriers are the dominant telecommunications corporations in every market in the United States. Even under the existing rules they use delaying tactics and restrictive red tape to damage potential competitors and maintain their stranglehold. To reclassify them as other than dominant would represent baldfaced dishonesty approaching malfeasance on the part of the FCC Commissioners. Please do NOT allow this to happen.